Subject: Tanda Embeds Elevate Super Into Its Platform Under New Partnership With Elevate Money

The Directors of Elevate Money Limited (“Elevate Money”) are pleased to announce that Tanda, Australia’s leading rostering, attendance, and award interpretation software, has partnered with Elevate Money to deliver a fully integrated choice superannuation fund option focused on sustainable investing as part of Tanda’s employee experience technology solution.

The partnership will leverage the market leading technology of the two groups to bring transparency and superannuation choice to Tanda’s customers starting with Elevate Super, a superannuation fund that targets competitive returns through sustainable investing.

“We have worked closely with Tanda to enable its customers to seamlessly choose Elevate Super as a sustainable super fund option within Tanda’s platform. With our tech, Tanda can provide its customers with a superannuation user experience second to none.” says Kent Kwan, CEO of Elevate Money.

Tanda Operations Director Brianna O’Regan says she’s excited for the benefits the partnership will bring for both platforms.

“Partnering with Elevate Money will enhance Tanda’s employee experience within Tanda, giving our users the option to take control of their superannuation from within the Tanda interface.”

Tanda is an Australian software company that builds best in market workforce management and wage compliance software. More than 10,000 businesses across Australia use Tanda’s software to pay staff correctly for the time they work.

Elevate Money connects trusted brands with relevant financial services. We help our partners embed smart financial products into their app, grow revenue and delight their customers. Many years in financial services immersed in technology and compliance has been distilled into flexible application programming interfaces (APIs) and content experiences, so our partners can build and launch rapidly.
